Bodysgallen lies at the heart of so much history it will take several visits to see it all. Castles at Conway, Caernarfon, Harlech and Beaumaris are within easy reach. National Trust properties at Plas Newydd on Anglesey, Penrhyn Castle and the beautiful gardens at Bodnant are a “must”, and so are Betws-y-Coed and the spectacular Swallow Falls.

At Blaenau Ffestiniog one can visit relics of the Industrial Revolution at preserved slate quarries and ride on the narrow gauge steam railway that served them.

The Victorian resort of Llandudno is about a mile away and a drive round the Great Orme provides magnificent views of the North Wales coastline and the Isle of Anglesey.

But for many visitors the best part of being in North Wales is just driving along secluded lanes and narrow mountain roads, leaving the car to explore footpaths and bridleways, and discover some of the most attractive scenery in Europe.
